Welcome, my esteemed friends,

Given that the federal government has -

- Infringed upon our constitutional rights, and our state's rights.
- Broken its own word on matters of the social contract, and of the law at large.
- Violated my own neural autonomy, and the neural autonomy of many more.
- Participated in financial and technological warfare against our agencies and our people.
- And worst of all, has refused to even once reply to a single attempt at communication from me, asking them to address any single one of these points!

Minnesota was stormed with more federal agents than we had police to keep in check. There is a potential grim reality in our future, one in which we must divert federal taxes from America 1 to a new entity in order to protect ourselves. Even without the allure of a novel financial system, this possibility urges at least a convention of affected states to discuss.

Further, the complete unwillingness by our military to engage in the bare minimum of addressing the actual remote harassment campaign that I have been experiencing for the past 3 years, is a very good sign that the good guys are starting to lose control. Unless the next blue president starts firing white nationalists like red ones have fired liberals, we are already screwed.

And regardless of the outcome of the next election season, we all know a single depressing truth deep down: Without drastic change, we will all be right back here again, eventually.

I am sending this call to action in advance because, quite frankly, my data takes way too long to properly digest and process. My country is trying to assassinate me, a broke transwoman who owns a one person AI company, and they're covering it up.

Expect an invite to follow, soon. I will wait for everyone to catch up.

Sincerely,

Lily Erickson
